Paul Jamison Will Enter Hall of Fame

The late Paul Jamison has been selected as the second man to be inducted into the Roanoke Valley Golf Hall of Fame.

Jamison and the late Clarence King, former professional at Blue Hills Golf Club, will be the first golfers inducted into the newlyfounded Hall of Fame.

Jamison won the state amateur title in 1924 when he was 25. He was club champion at the Roanoke Country Club in 1916, 1924, 1935 and 1938. He was an active participant in the old Appalachian Golf Association.

He died in 1942 at the age of 52.
